

Did the punishment always fit the crime?

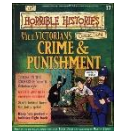

1. What is a justice system?
2. What did the Romans believe about crime and punishment?
3. How was the Anglo-Saxon justice system different from ours today?
4. Were the Tudor punishments fair?
5. Who was the Highwayman?
6. How did it feel to be a Victorian prisoner?
7. How can we prevent crime today?

Vocabulary

criminal	victim	witness
trial	judge	jury
prevention	detection	hero
villain

Key Texts:

- "Crime and Punishment through the ages" by Grant Bage
- "The Vile Victorians: crime and punishment" by Terry Deary

As Historians can we....?

- Compare and contrast the British justice system from Roman times through to present day (all questions)
- Show an understanding of chronology by the realisation that the past can be divided into different periods of time. (all questions)
- Recognise similarities and differences between these periods, using correct dates and terms (all questions)
- Show a knowledge and understanding of the main events, people and changes studied (all questions)
- Give reasons for, and the results of, the main changes and events (all questions)
- Identify different ways that the past can be represented (4,5)
- Observe sources of information to answer questions about the past (4- Tudor artefacts)

Cross curricular links:

Maths: calculate wergild values for Anglo-Saxon punishments

English: Explanation about how to deal with Victorian prisoners

Sub-headings, technical language, commas for a list, present tense, facts

How does this impact on our lives today?

Explore ways in which modern crime prevention and detection has its origins in different historical periods e.g. judge and jury, neighbourhood watch, witness to a crime.